Part III, Title III, Chapter I, Article VII

HASTINGS COLLEGE OF LAW

Sec. 1478. Officers, and Their Appointment. The law college founded and established by S. C. Hastings shall forever be known and designated as the Hastings College of Law. Its officers are a dean, registrar, and eight directors. Whenever any vacancy occurs in the board of directors, they must fill the same from the members of the Bar Association of San Francisco or otherwise; but such vacancies must be so filled that one of such directors shall be an heir or representative of said Hastings. The dean and registrar are appointed by the directors.

Sec. 1479. Affiliation With the University. Such college is affiliated with the university of the state, and is the law department thereof.

Sec. 1480. Granting and Issuing of Diplomas. The faculty of the university must grant, and the president must sign and issue, diplomas to the students of the college.

Sec. 1481. Rooms and Halls for Use of Students and Directors. There must be set apart for the use of the students of the college, some room or suitable hall at the university, and the board of supervisors of the city and county of San Francisco is authorized to supply a suitable hall therein for the students and directors.

Sec. 1482. The Dean. The dean of the college is ex officio of the faculty of the university, to be designated as such by the directors of the college.

Sec. 1484. Appropriation To Be Made. The sum of seven per cent per annum upon one hundred thousand dollars must be appropriated by the state and paid in two semi-annual payments to the directors of the college.

Sec. 1485. Purposes of the College. The business of the college is to afford facilities for the acquisition of legal learning in all branches of the law, and to this end it must establish a curriculum of studies and must matriculate students who may reside at the university of the state, as well as students residing in other parts thereof.

Sec. 1486. Professorships. Professorships may be established in the name of any founder thereof, who pays to the directors the sum of thirty thousand dollars.

Sec. 1486a. Powers and Duties of Directors. All the business of the college must be managed by the directors without compensation. The acting officers, including the dean and registrar, must be appointed and may be removed by the directors.

Sec. 1486b. Use of Law Library. The Law Library Association of the city and county of San Francisco must grant to the students the use of its library upon such terms and conditions as it may agree upon with the directors of the college.

Sec. 1486c. Payments in Case of Failure of Appropriations, etc. If the state fails to pay to the directors of the college the sum of seven thousand dollars per annum, as stipulated in section fourteen hundred and eighty-four, or if the college ceases to exist, the state must pay to the said Hastings, his heirs or legal representatives, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, and all unexpended accumulated interest, unless such failure is caused by mistake or accident, or the omission of the legislature to make the appropriation at any one session.

Sec. 1486d. President of Board. The chief justice of the supreme court of the state is president of the board of directors, five of whom constitute a quorum to transact all business.

HISTORY

Hastings College of the Law was created by Act of the Legislature of California, approved March 26, 1878, which provided for its affiliation with the University of California. The College was endowed by Honorable Seranno Clinton Hastings, the first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of California, after whom the school is named.

During the early years of the college, Professor John Norton Pomeroy occupied the position of Professor of Municipal Law, and during his incumbency wrote his work on Equity Jurisprudence. Upon the death of Professor Pomeroy in 1885, Honorable Charles W. Slack was appointed to the faculty and from 1894 until 1899 acted as Professor of Municipal Law and Dean of the Faculty. Between the years 1888 and 1894, Honorable E. W. McKinstry, formerly a Justice of the Supreme Court of California, was Professor of Municipal Law. For twenty years beginning with the time of the retirement of Judge Slack from the faculty in 1899, Dr. Edward Robeson Taylor served as Professor of Law and Dean of the College.

LOCATION

The classrooms and quarters of the College are located on the fourth floor of the San Francisco City Hall, in the same building with the courts and the city and county offices, and on the same floor with the San Francisco Law Library, the most extensive law library on the Pacific Coast. The opportunities thus afforded the student in the college are practically unexcelled among city law schools.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the College is to furnish systematic and thorough instruction in those branches of our jurisprudence which will fit the student for the practice of the profession of law. With this end in view, the courses which are given are based primarily on the case-book method, the aim being to develop the analytical powers of the student, and his familiarity with the historical development of the law. Special attention is given to the codes and statutes of California and the decisions of the California courts.

MOOT COURT

Moot courts, under the direction of members of the faculty, are established as a regular mode of instruction. Participation therein is compulsory upon all students.

LECTURES

In addition to the regular courses, lectures are delivered from time to time by judges and lawyers upon special topics.

LIBRARY FACILITIES

In addition to our own library, students are permitted to use the Bar Association Library (during office hours) and the San Francisco Law Library. The San Francisco Law Library is on the same floor in the City Hall as that of this College. It contains more than 46,000 volumes.

PRIVILEGES ON GRADUATION

Students who complete the prescribed courses receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws from the University of California.

FEES

Tuition is free, but a fee of $25 per semester is charged to cover incidental expenses.

SCHOLARSHIPS

The Sheffield Sanborn Scholarships for the year 1921-1922 were awarded to William Kevin Casey and Benjamin Christie Mickle of the class of 1923.

PRIZE

The Bancroft-Whitney prize, offered for the student of the first-year class having the highest scholarship record, was awarded for the year to Antoinette Elizabeth di Nola.

SPECIAL COURSE OF LECTURES

During the two weeks commencing August 21, 1922, a special course of six lectures, endowed by Mr. Sidney M. Ehrman, of the San Francisco bar, will be delivered by Joseph H. Beale, Royall Professor of Law at Harvard University Law School.

The general subject of the course is "The Law and the People." The particular subjects of the lectures are as follows:

- I. The Democratic Constitution.
- II. The Purpose and Method of Law.
- III. The Utility of Law.
- IV. The Democracy of Law.
- V. The Law and the Interests.
- VI. The Law and Crime.

The exact dates of these lectures will be announced later. They will be open to members of the San Francisco bar as well as to students of the college.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

Every applicant for admission to the College must be shown to be of good moral character and must either (1) be a graduate of the University of California or hold an academic degree from some other approved university; or (2) must have obtained a Junior Certificate in an Academic College of the University of California, after two years' residence, or must have satisfactorily performed equivalent work at some other university or college.

Credit will be given for work done at other law schools; but such credit will not be given unless the law school at which the work has been done is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, nor unless the student has completed the amount of preparation required for admission into the College.

Members of the bar may, in the discretion of the Dean, be admitted as special students.

Further information can be obtained from the Dean or the Registrar.
